Merging professional development and science: Constructing a successful grant proposal

Panelists:
- Gary Lupyan, University of Wisconsin, Madison
- Betty Tuller, National Science Foundation
- Anne Warlaumont, University of California, Merced

Discussant:
- Judith Kroll, Pennsylvania State University

Organizers:
- Laurie Feldman, University at Albany, SUNY
- Natasha Tokowicz, University of Pittsburgh

Please complete an evaluation form!

WiCS is supported by a grant from the Perception, Action, and Cognition program at the National Science Foundation
WiCS

Current Coordinators:
- Laurie Feldman, University Albany, SUNY
- Judith Kroll, Penn State University
- Suparna Rajaram, Stony Brook University
- Debra Titone, McGill University
- Natasha Tokowicz, University of Pittsburgh
- Janet van Hell, Penn State University

Advisory Board:
- Teresa Bajo, University of Granada
- Randall Engle, Georgia Institute of Technology
- Morton Ann Gernsbacher, University of Wisconsin
- Pernille Hemmer, Rutgers University
- Helene Intraub, University of Delaware
- Randi Martin, Rice University
- Nora Newcombe, Temple University
- Mary Peterson, University of Arizona
- Molly Potter, MIT
- Jennifer Trueblood, University of California, Irvine
- Virginia Valian, Hunter College
- Tessa Warren, University of Pittsburgh
WiCS Goals

- Contribute to professional development of young scholars
- Reduce gender stereotypes and biases

  => fair and accurate evaluation of abilities
- Improve the visibility of junior and senior women scientists

WiCS is supported by a grant from the Perception, Action, and Cognition program at the National Science Foundation
WiCS Activities

- Organize panel discussions and workshops at
  - Association for Psychological Science
  - Cognitive Science Society
  - Psychonomics

- Network opportunities, including
  - Travel/networking awards
  - Social hour
  - Website, Facebook

- Mentorship Awards to recognize the importance of effective mentoring

WiCS is supported by a grant from the Perception, Action, and Cognition program at the National Science Foundation
WiCS Membership

- Want to become a member of Women in Cognitive Science?
  - Go to the website www.womenincogsci.org and sign up
  - No fee, open to all scientists
  - About 950 members
  - New activities
  - Job announcements

- Also visit our Facebook page
  - www.facebook.com/WomenInCognitiveScience

- If you are interested in helping to organize WiCS events, please let us know

WiCS is supported by a grant from the Perception, Action, and Cognition program at the National Science Foundation
Merging professional development and science: Constructing a successful grant proposal

Panelists:
- Gary Lupyan, University of Wisconsin, Madison
- Betty Tuller, National Science Foundation
- Anne Warlaumont, University of California, Merced

Discussant:
- Judith Kroll, Pennsylvania State University

Organizers:
- Laurie Feldman, University at Albany, SUNY
- Natasha Tokowicz, University of Pittsburgh

Please complete an evaluation form!

WiCS is supported by a grant from the Perception, Action, and Cognition program at the National Science Foundation